

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
instruction to their stations to air
"Stolen Honor:
Wounds that Never Heal", pre-empting
regular programming
so close to an election seems at odds with their mandate to serve the public interest.

Stations using public airwaves free
of charge are compelled by law to serve the public interest. A blatantly biased piece so near an election influences
opinion from a source that is bound by law to remain
neutral.

Should Sinclair's
tactics proceed,
they should face the
harshest possible
reprisal for
betraying the public interest.

Thank you for including my input.
